

International Centre for Democratic Partnerships

The Power of Networks

Making the most of a virtual world

Virtual Dialogue

Tuesday 15 November 2022 at 10:30am - 11:45am AEST)

The ICDP Pacific network is reconvening for a "virtual talanoa" to highlight the power of networks. This event will be led by Hub Coordinators in over 9 Pacific Island and Australia-based Hubs. It is a follow-up to our event in 2021 - "The Power of Women's Networks Dialogue."

Join us to hear from inspiring individuals who will share insights and discuss ideas on how to approach networking, put tips into practice and maintain flourishing networks.

What is networking?

Networking allows you to establish mutually beneficial relationships with others, such as partners, collaborators and customers.

Networking gives you the ability to collaborate with like-minded people to help grow businesses and to improve professional and personal lives. Importantly, a network of people you trust will support you with connections, job opportunities, mentoring, ideas and advice.

This is why we encourage building networks – there is power in the pack! If you can't find a local hub or networking group, you can always start your own. That is what some of our members have done.

Registrations close on Sunday 13 November 2022 at 12pm (AEST). Click here to sign up for the event!

How will this benefit me?

This dialogue will help you better understand the importance of networking and how technology can support connections through enabling sharing, mentoring and learning.

Through short interviews with key network members and authentic connections via curated small group conversations, you will:

- Learn about different types of networks
- Connect with like-minded peers and inspiring thought-leaders from the Pacific
- Learn how technology can facilitate successful connections and foster online communities
- Create opportunities to grow businesses by connecting with other Australian and Pacific entrepreneurs and practitioners
- Expand your personal and professional networks and identify a potential mentor for ongoing success.

ICDP is an independent, non-profit, non-political organisation that encourages & facilitates dialogue, discussions & better relationships between Pacific & Australia. To find out more: www.icdp.com.au